Re: Application for Role Title

Dear Hiring Manager Name,

[Hook: one specific fact about the company from the posting or its news, such as a product, launch, market move or problem.] [Bridge: one sentence tying it to me, e.g. "Taking a physical product and its software to market together is exactly what I do at NOWN."]

I own a product from first requirement to launch. At NOWN, a design and architecture studio in Amsterdam, the CEO gave me an interior ceiling and wall system that ships with its own software configurator. I wrote the requirements, managed the developer building the configurator, took the product through production and led the go-to-market. I now run the launch of a second product line, with prioritised launch waves, a risk log and clear decision rights for every stakeholder.

I decide with evidence. At ChatLicense, a pre-launch EdTech start-up, I was the first employee and built the app with the co-founders: user flows and gamification in Figma with the development agency, interviews with parents, and tests in schools across the Netherlands that changed the product before launch. At NOWN I found that 83,000 monthly site searches and our main conversion had never been tracked, and wrote the fix plan that connects marketing to real sample and quote requests.

I lead people, budgets and scope. I've lived in an international environment my whole life: school in Oman, graduating early, then moving to the Netherlands on my own before I was eighteen. I work in English, Arabic and French, and that ease with people from everywhere is how I manage. At NOWN I lead creative teams, web developers, production and freelancers across EMEA, and share budgeting and financial planning with the CEO. At EMG I worked with Mitsubishi, Songwon and Oman's national energy company OQ, for whom I built the communications roadmap to the K Show, the world's largest plastics fair, from PR calendar to media training. When my manager moved on, I took over budget allocation, utilisation tracking and pricing across the accounts.

As a teenager I hiked Al Jabal Al Akhdar, where two-thousand-year-old aflaj channels carry water so precisely that orchards grow on bare rock. It's still how I work: read the terrain, then channel people and resources to where they'll make something grow. I'd love to do that at Company Name. My case studies are at essiazarroukzarrouk2001-alt.github.io/essia-portfolio.

Best regards,

Essia Zarrouk
